NUMB. 438.

THE South-Carolina Gazette.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From MONDAY Auguſt 9, to MONDAY Auguſt 16, 1742.

LONDON, April 17.

IT is ſaid, that an extraordinary Naval Expedition will ſoon be executed; ---- of a different Nature to ſome former ſecret Expeditions; and that ſeveral Men of War will ſpeedily ſail for the Bay of Biſcay.

April 20. The Capture of ſo many Ships lately by the Spaniards, ſcarce a Poſt arriving without a melancholly Account of more or leſs being taken, juſtly gives the Merchants great Uneaſineſs, and juſtifies the Reaſonableneſs of their Complaint againſt the Miſconduct of carrying on the War, the ill Effects of which daily appear, and will require ſome Time to rectify.

They write from Venice, that Proviſion is making by that Republick for an Army of 30,000 Men.

We hear that the Earl of Stair, our Ambaſſador in Holland, has propos'd to the Dutch, That the Towns in the Low Countries ſhall be garriſoned with half Engliſh and half Dutch, to prevent any evil Suſpicion of the moſt Chriſtian King.

April 27. We hear, That on Thurſday next there will be the moſt general Engagement as has been this political Campaign: The Forces on both Sides have been muſter'd, and ſeveral Parties are in full March to join their reſpective Corps; and it is thought there will not be a great Inequality of Numbers on either Side. ----- Various are the Expectations of the Iſſue of that Day.

The great, th'important Day, big with the Of  and . [Fate

We hear ſeveral Bankers have been lately examin'd at W-------ll, concerning large Sums of Money, and by Whom they were placed in their Hands, and to Whom they were paid. --- To diſcover a Secret of this Kind, would explain many more.

James Steuart, Eſq; and Sir Charles Hardy, are appointed Rear-Admirals of the Blue Squadron of his Majeſty's Fleet.

We hear that the Field-Equipage belonging to his Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, is order'd to be got in Readineſs with all Expedition, his Highneſs being to embark for Flanders with the firſt Regiment of Foot Guards under his Command.

This Day his Majeſty review'd on Black-Heath the Regiments that are to compoſe the firſt Embarkation; the whole Body of Forces deſign'd for the Low-Countries being divided into four Parts, two of which will be ſhipped on the Eſſex, and two on the Kentiſh Shores, at different Times.

On Saturday the Battalions of Guards deſign'd for Flanders, receiv'd their Knapſacks, Hatchets, Water-pots and Tin Kettles, neceſſary for a Campaign, and were order'd to appear on Black-Heath by 5 o'Clock in the Morning.

Seventeen Tranſports lie ready at Deptford, their Seats, &c. being compleated for the Reception of the Land Forces that are to embark directly for Flanders.

April 29. A Bill of Pains and Penalties is talk'd of, in order to render Examinations for the future more Effectual.

We hear that the Bill for excluding certain Officers from being Members, has been read a ſecond Time; and Monday the Houſe proceeds on the Bill touching Returning-Officers: And Friday is the Day appointed for the whole Houſe to conſider further of the Supplies, &c.

We hear that 4000 Men will be raiſed forthwith, to replace in Part, thoſe going for Flanders.

Yeſterday at Nine, his Majeſty, attended by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cumberland, and divers Perſons of Diſtinction, review'd on Black-Heath General Howard's Regiment, and the Welch Fuzileers, which Regiments immediately embark'd, one at Woolwich, and the other at Deptford, in order for Flanders.

To

To Captain Thomas Frankland, Commander of His Majesty's Ship the Rose, lately arrived (from a Cruise) at Charles-Town, with another Spanish Privateer, &c.

TO You, great Sir, who justly Merit praise,
Sincere Mechanicks their free Tribute pays:
With Joy and Wonder, we your Deeds behold,
And dare to sing you're admirably bold.
Ne'er in a Harbour is the Rose confin'd,
By blind Excuses, or, the Female Kind:
To plough the Ocean suits your warlike Mind.
And whereso'er our envious Foes you meet,
By prudent Measures you their Force defeat;
Before our Bay you make their Vessels ride,
Strip'd of their Riches, and all Spanish Pride.
Oh! Had you lately cruiz'd near Symon's Bar,
T'have watch'd the Motions of the Spaniards there,
The fearful Mongrels had not sneak'd away,
With Yours, our Force would giv'n 'em English Play;
And, by this Time our Fleet been out of Pay.
Long may you live, and proper in the Rose,
Be bless'd by Heav'n, and still subdue our Foes.

MECHANISM.

CHARLES-TOWN, August 16.

On Thursday last one of the Scout-Boats employ'd on the late Occasion, to carry Advices between this Government and General Oglethorpe at Frederica, and which (having been detain'd there about 16 Days) was tho't to be missing, arrived here. We learn by her, That Capt. Gibson in our Galley the Beaufort, having run down to Florida put in again to Frederica the 3d Instant, and gave Information to the General, That he had discover'd Nine Sail of the Spanish-Galleys, &c. lying in St. Juan's River. And that the General kept the Charles-Town and Beaufort Gallies both in the Service.

It is not at present known where the Rest of the Spanish Fleet are. They carried off the Three Eighteen-Pounders which the General had mounted at St. Simon's: But, it is tho't they would have left more Men behind them than they did, had their Landing been disputed after they passed the Battery, upon their first entering into the Harbour, for which Purpose it is said the Ground was very advantageous, but the General must be allowed to know that Matter best. The Indians were of vast Service to the General, the far greater Part of the Spaniards that were kill'd upon St. Simon's Island being killed by Them and the Highlanders. It is moreover said, That much about the Time that the Men of War appeared off St. Simon's, the Spaniards had (by some Means or other) a Report in their Camp, That Two Thousand Men were expected every Moment to the General's Relief. And it is highly probable, That when they saw the Men of War only appear in Sight and then stand off to Sea again directly, it was not imagined by them that those Men of War were returned hither, but being first certain that the Spanish Forces were upon St. Simon's, were going down to St. Augustine which was left very weak; In which Case not only that Castle might be taken, but the Supply of Provisions (which the Fleet stood greatly in Need of) and even their Retreat cut off. Indeed it is scarce possible upon any other Grounds to account for so surprizing Retreat of the Spaniards from the Island, before they had come to any Thing which might properly be called an Action, with the General.

Last Friday Capt. Frankland in his Majesty's Ship the Rose, together with the Flamborough and Swift Men of War, and Four of the Provincial Vessels (commanded by Captains Murray, Barrett, Chapman and Braddock) sail'd over this Bar to cruise against the Spaniards. We hear, That they are to touch at St. Simon's and be joined by our Gallies now there. No doubt the Rye and Hawk Men of War (which weighed Anchor off this Bar and stood to the Southward just after Capt. Frankland arrived here) will meet with the Fleet and join also.

We hear, by Way of Providence, That Captain Laws is sent by Admiral Vernon, with Three Men of War to destroy Barracoa.

The Assembly having been dissolved by Proclamation, we hear, That new Writs of Election are issued, to choose Members for a new Assembly on the first and second Days of next Month.
